About GASTAT

The General Authority for Statistics (GASTAT) serves as the only official reference for statistical work in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, acting as its technical supervisor & regulator. GASTAT develops a wide range of statistical products across the social, economic, and environmental fields to support policymakers and decision-makers in driving forward the implementation of development plans.

Statistical Knowledge Program

The Statistical Knowledge Program is a national program launched by the General Authority for Statistics (GASTAT) in partnership with the Ministry of Education. This competition serves as an initiative to support one of its primary objectives: enabling future generations to access accurate information from reliable sources and empowering students to handle data with confidence and professionalism, contributing to the development of an informed society capable of making well-founded decisions.
